For Immediate Release

Building Creativity Art Show

Young at Art Studios, the missing link in art education, presents student's drawings, paintings, and mixed media pieces at the 2006 annual student art shows.

Everyone is invited to come celebrate these local artists of all ages and partake in the moon bounce, food, and fun for the whole family! Three show openings: March 26th in Agoura Hills, April 30th in Camarillo, and May 21st in Moorpark, from noon to 2 p.m. at Young at Art Studios. Each show will be on display for a month following the opening from 3 p.m. till 6 p.m., Monday-Saturday.

Art show attendees will judge the Young at Art Studios' student entries. The winning entries receive top honors and are featured on Young at Art Studios' summer brochures for each studio. Artwork of first place winners in each age group and category will also be on display at www.youngatartstudios.com following each show.

"The arts teach students that small differences can have large effects. The arts traffic in subtleties." —Elliot Eisner, Stanford University, Learning and the Arts: Crossing Boundaries. The ability to see the nuances of the world is a learned skill that can have huge effects. To build your/your child's creativity join us in a study of fine arts through our ongoing hands-on classes and workshops.

Young at Art Studios, independently owned by professional artists since 1992, provides fine arts programs, workshops, crafts and in-school enrichment for all levels of aspiring artists-children and adults. A Free introductory class is offered to those interested in attending Young at Art Studios. Studios are open Monday through Saturday by appointment.
